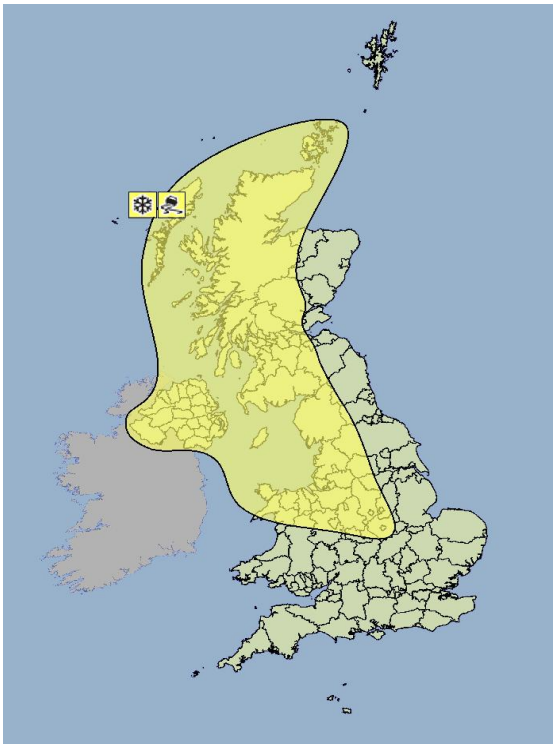
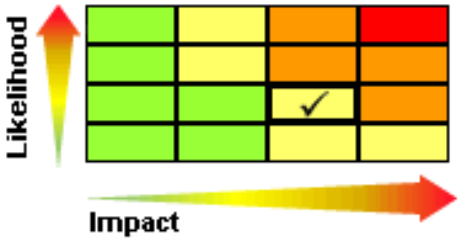
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A very cold westerly airstream will bring frequent snow showers to many western and central areas on Sunday. 2-5 cm of snow may accumulate above 150 m with some snow to low levels too, particularly across Northern Ireland and Scotland. 10 cm or more is possible above 300 m in western Scotland, with drifting in the strong westerly winds. Ice will also be a hazard overnight into Sunday morning and then is expected to return in the evening.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow and Ice

Valid from 00:05 on Sun, 11th Feb 2018 until 23:55 on Sun, 11th Feb 2018

Frequent, heavy hail and snow showers are expected through Sunday and will lead to snow accumulating on many surfaces.

Longer journey times by road, bus and train services are likely while some vehicles could become stranded. Ice is likely to form on untreated pavements, cycle paths and roads leading to some injuries from slips and falls. Power cuts may occur and other services, such as mobile phones, may be affected.
